

Remitly Launches International Business Payments from the U.S. — Built for Speed, Simplicity, and Trust

Posted on June 23, 2025 by Ali Mollhoff

Today, we're excited to introduce business payments—now available to Remitly customers sending from the U.S..

If you run a business, you can now use Remitly to send international payments to employees, freelancers, vendors, and partners in over 100 countries.

Through extensive research and conversations with business owners like you, we identified a major gap: many of you were looking for a payments solution that fit the size and needs of your business. So we built it. Now you can experience the same trusted Remitly service with dedicated business support and none of the cost or complexity of an enterprise solution.

Use Remitly to:

- Pay international contractors and freelancers
- Manage global payroll for remote teams
- Send money to vendors and suppliers abroad

- Support disbursements and one-time payouts

Set up in minutes. Pay in less than an hour. Create an account, and start sending payments in just a few clicks. Onboarding is simple and secure, and payments often disburse in under an hour.

Send without surprise costs. No hidden fees and clear, competitive exchange rates—all at no additional cost. Unlike some providers, we don't charge extra to access a business account.

Get dedicated business support. Remitly's business account comes with fast, knowledgeable help from specialists who understand your business. Whether you're troubleshooting a transfer or initiating payments for your global team, we're here to help.

What customers are saying:
"Remitly has made it incredibly easy and affordable to pay my international employees. I can send payments directly to their bank accounts, quickly and reliably. It's been a game-changer for managing payroll across borders, giving me peace of mind and helping my team feel valued and secure." – Emily, CEO, eclicksolutions

Remitly business payments are now available to customers in the U.S., with support for payments from additional countries coming soon.

To learn more or create a free business account, visit Remitly.com.