New Westminster Office to Become a Center of Excellence, Actively Hiring Engineering Talent

Remitly is thrilled to announce the opening of our first Greater Vancouver area office in New Westminister, nestled along the picturesque Fraser River. This new location marks a significant milestone in our growth journey as we expand our corporate footprint to Canada and tap into the vibrant tech ecosystem of the Greater Vancouver area.

Our New Westminister office will serve as a growing center of excellence for Remitly, supporting product development across several priority areas for the business. We are excited to expand our team in this inspiring environment and be a part of Canada's thriving tech scene.

This strategic expansion into New Westminister is a testament to Remitly's commitment to growth and innovation. As we continue to evolve, we are dedicated to investing in the future and building strong relationships within the local tech community.
